Dear Charles,

Last month you arranged to satisfy a request from an Austrian editor of a compendium on the new market orientation of both East and West Europe (my letter of 13 October): a suitable speech by the Prime Minister was FAXed to him the next day and he and I are most grateful.

You might like to see the short introduction I have sent to Vienna for the section on Gorbachev's reforms - an attempt briefly to summarise his economic aims and constraints.

Yours sincerely,

Thank you for your letter of 22 November and for sending me a copy of the short introduction you have written on President Gorbachev's reforms. It is very helpful to have this. I look forward to reading it as soon as possible and will ensure the Prime Minister also sees it before President Gorbachev's visit.
